Strange Mixture of East and West When Four Thousand Ruthenians Gathered at Mundare Yesterday to Witness the Blessing and Consecration of Their Church by Cardinal Czeptycki, Primate of Galicia.

Cardinal Stands Over Six Feet High and Made an Imposing Figure in His Glittering Robes and Priestly Crown—Same Church of Which Premier Laurier Laid the Corner Stone on His Recent Tour Through the West.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Mundare, Oct. 24.—Nearly four thousand people attended the blessing of the Ruthenian Catholic church here yesterday morning conducted by Cardinal Czeptycki, primate of Galicia. This is the church, the corner stone of which was laid by Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his recent western tour.

His excellency, Count Czeptycki, Archbishop of Lemberg, metropolitan of Galicia, is a member of the Russian order. He received his education at Lemberg and became afterwards professor in the Ruthenian college there. From there he was called to be Bishop of Stanislaw and two years ago was appointed Archbishop of Lemberg and cardinal. He was one of the delegates to the Ecumenical Congress at Montreal, since which he has been touring the United States and Canada, visiting Ruthenian centres.

Though no bishop has yet been appointed for Canada, the work is very important. There are in Alberta 25,000

Galicians with but two priests to minister to them. Father Hura in Edmonton and Father Ochinski in Mundare. It is probable that the archbishop's work will see a distinct move forward in this direction. He is in Edmonton this week, going south to Calgary and east to Brandon before his return to Austria.

Ruthenians from far and near gathered to do honor to their head and hear greetings from the church in the old land yesterday. Cardinal Czeptycki is in reality the head of the Ruthenian Catholic church, being Archbishop of Lemberg and Primate of Galicia.

OVER SIX THOUSAND DOLLARS SINCE LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

Y. M. C. A. Clock Is in a Great Hurry Today—Nearly Thirty Thousand Dollars from Two O'clock This Afternoon—It Means Strenuous Work But Y. M. C. A. Men Are Determined to Raise the Full Thirty-Six Thousand Dollars by Seven O'clock This Evening.

The final day of the Y. M. C. A. campaign opened this morning with a feeling in every worker's bones that something was going to happen, and something is happening. After the announcement at the meeting yesterday afternoon that today would be a free-for-all, the campaigners felt that with a free field and unhindered that they could realize the $12,000 necessary to make up the $24,000 required. Consequently this morning opened with a rush about 80 workers engaging in the final effort. Shortly after the captains of the various teams began telephoning in the progress of the campaign in their respective districts, and each $500 was realized the hand of the clock moved forward to that extent. This kept up all morning and at three o'clock the amount registered on the big time began to exceed the workers to the extent that they were then confident that the desired $36,000 would be reached by 6 o'clock.

This morning there were several large subscriptions among them being a $1,000 pledge, ob-

ALL IS O.K. FOR SOAP FACTORY

E. F. Wayman, of Regina, Will Start One Here in the Near Future.

GETS LOCAL CAPITAL

Twenty-three Thousand Dollars Out of Forty Subscribed by Edmonton Men.

The proposition out-lined by a Canadian soap manufacturer a couple of weeks ago, to establish a soap factory here, and which was discussed by the manufacturer's committee of the city council, is likely to materialize. Mr. E. F. Wayman, of Regina, is the gentleman who has the matter in hand. As $23,000 of the required $40,000 has been practically subscribed, and another $15,000 guaranteed by members of the board of trade, the prospects of the soap factory being established here are very bright. Mr. Wayman had no difficulty whatever in raising the $23,000, the money being offered without solicitation, the endorsement of the proposition by the board of trade, and the manufacturing committee having much to do with the public confidence.

On Saturday night Mr. Wayman left for Chicago, where he will inspect a number of the large soap factories there, with a view to picking up a number of pointers and arranging for the installation of the best modern improvements in the plant he proposes to locate here.

ASK BISCUIT MEN RE SEWAGE WORK

And Toledo Biscuit Company Wants to Know What the Joke is About.

IN THE WRONG ENVELOPE

Letters Got Mixed—Biscuit Company Returns Letter, Keeps City's Emblem.

What has the making of biscuits got to do with sewage machinery? That is what the Toledo Biscuit Company, of Toledo, Ohio, wants to know.

The city engineer this morning received a letter from the biscuit company this morning in which they state the question thus:

"We are in receipt of your letter of the 4th, and the same is a commendation to us as we are biscuit makers and know nothing about sewage machinery."

After some investigation the engineer got to the bottom of the matter. A couple of weeks ago, a machinery company quoted prices to the department and enclosed a stamped envelope for reply. The department answered the letter and placed it in the stamped envelope. In some way another the stamped envelope was one of the Toledo Biscuit company's (the fact not being noticed by the clerk in the office here when he mailed the reply. That is the city engineer's solution.

"We have taken the liberty," continues the biscuit company's letter, "of taking a piece from your letter; that part bearing the emblem of your city which we think is very appropriate and a very nice emblem."

"Wishing your city all the success in the world, we are very respectfully,
"THE TOLEDO BISCUIT CO."

St. Albert Farmer Reports Horse Was Shot—Mounted Police Cases

The sum of $60 was stolen a few days ago from the house of Frank England at the packing plant. The R. N. W. M. P. are investigating the case.

The preliminary trial of Wasieroko who is summoned to answer for the burning of a threshing outfit at Leduc some time ago will take place tomorrow at the R. N. W. M. P. barracks.

A farmer whose name is at present unknown to the police, telephoned this morning to the mounted police from St. Albert, to say that his horse had strayed from his farm and had been shot by some one. The police are sending a constable out to assist in investigating the matter.

BEAUMONT FARMER SHOT BY ACCIDENT

Was Climbing Over Fence When His Gun Was Discharged, Shot Entered Arm

DRIVEN TO EDMONTON

Injured Man Brought Twenty-five Miles to Hospital—In Critical Condition.

Another accident has been added to the already long list of accidents caused by the discharge of firearms. Yesterday a farmer named Elroy Chappel, living about ten miles southeast of Beaumont, a place about fifteen miles southeast of Edmonton, was taking a walk with his gun on his arm, when in getting over a fence it went off and the charge of shot entered his arm below the elbow.

Dr. T. M. MacDonald, of Strathcona, was called out to see him and he immediately ordered him to be brought to Edmonton. The drive was a long one of twenty-five miles, and the farmer had lost a large amount of blood already and arrived in a critical condition.

He was taken to the Misericordia Hospital, where it was found this morning that it was necessary to amputate the arm. This was accordingly done, but Chappel is very weak owing to the loss of blood and it is not known whether he will live or not.

SHOT ACCIDENTALLY

Winnipeg, Oct. 24.—W. F. Whelan, partner and manager of F. J. Cox and Co., returning to his home from his brother's farm, with gun cocked, when he shot himself through the breast, dying almost immediately. His ten year old nephew was the sole witness. Whelan was armed with a veteran's rifle. He leaves a widow and one child, who are on the ocean, returning from a visit to England.

EIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES

That Many Were Reported in Edmonton During the Past Year Alone.

FOURTEEN IN DISTRICT

Of Eight City Cases, Two Died While Others Are Recovering.

During the past year there have been fourteen cases of infantile paralysis in this district, eight of which occurred in the city of Edmonton, according to a statement made to the Capital this morning by Dr. Whitehead, medical health officer. Dr. Whitehead, however, gives his statement on the cases reported to him, and the probability is that there have been more. There have been no new cases reported.

Of the eight city cases, two died, while the remainder still shows signs of paralysis, but are recovering under treatment.

BALLOON OVER CHICAGO

One of St. Louis Racers Passes Over City Headed Straight for New York

Toronto, Oct. 24.—At 9:45 last night a balloon passed over Toronto, east by south at about forty miles an hour. The balloon was several thousand feet up but in the clear atmosphere a light could be seen issuing from the "basket" of the balloon. It is thought to be one of the balloons that left St. Louis. The direction was straight for New York City.

HE COULDN'T GET HOME IN THE DARK

So He Took Three Lanterns Used to Mark Excavations On the Streets.

AND PAID FOR THEM, TOO

Was Fined Fifteen Dollars and Costs in the Police Court This Morning.

James O'Neill couldn't get home in the dark on Sunday night so he appropriated several of the lanterns at the corner of Nanaimo avenue to light him on his way.

"I couldn't find my way home last night," was the way he expressed it, "and I saw several of these lanterns lying on the sidewalk, so I took them."

It appears that O'Neill took three lanterns stationed at the corners of Nanaimo and Short streets, Nanaimo and McCauley and Nanaimo and Gallagher. These lamps are used to protect the public works and the Deputy Chief of Police, in answer to a question by Magistrate Cowan as to whether the man should be punished heavily or not, said that there had been a large number of lanterns missing lately and that he thought, that somebody ought to be punished severely as an example. O'Neill was fined $15 and costs.

MORE CONFIRMATION THAT C.N. WILL BUILD A. & G.W. RAILWAY?

Settlers in North Country Along Line of Proposed Route of A. & G.W. State That Canadian Northern Survey Parties Are Working Along Great Waterways' Line—Stated Little Reason to Doubt But That C.N.R. Will Build the New Road

That the Canadian Northern interests are going to take over and build the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway, that stormy petrel of Alberta politics, is again confirmed in the minds of some people who have come in from the north by the fact that several parties of surveyors have been sent out to the north country by the MacKenzie and Mann company. These surveyors are going over the route outlined in the plans of the Alberta and Great Waterways railway. They are believed to be engaged in estimating the probable cost of constructing the line and the best and most direct route to Fort McMurray.

According to settlers living in that district who have had conversations with members of the survey parties, there is little reason to doubt but that the Canadian Northern will build the line for the provincial government and in all probability either buy it outright from the government or else operate it on a long term lease.

ALL DEPARTMENTS OF CIVIC UTILITIES SHOW INCREASES

Electric Light, Telephone and Waterworks Department Will All Show a Surplus—City Engineer's Department Spent Three Hundred Thousand Dollars Less Last Year—Civic Year Closes in a Week's Time.

From present indications, the electric light, telephone, and waterworks departments will show surpluses this year. The most creditable pre-estimate is that of the electric light department which after wiping out the deficit of $16,000 of last year, will have a surplus of about $6,000. That department has also done considerably better this year, which adds credit to the work of the department.

The telephone department will have a surplus about the same size as last year, namely about $2,000. In the last few months the telephone system has been extended at a surprising rate, the installations in some weeks averaging five a day.

The waterworks department is still working on the balance sheets, but as stated in Saturday's Capital, from a rough checking, it is estimated that the surplus will be in the neighborhood of from $1,000 to $3,000. There has been considerable extension work carried on in this department also.

The engineer's department is a spending department, practically no revenue being received. The expenditure this year, however, will not be as large as last year when it reached $80,000. It will probably approximate $50,000 or a little less.

The power department must break even in that the monthly charge must equal the cost of operation.

ANOTHER LABORER APPEALS TO COURT FOR WAGES FROM G.T.P.

Magistrate Cowan Wonders Why Pay Office Is Not in Edmonton, and Company's Agent Furishes Explanation.

"We all know what trouble the men are having now with the railway companies. Why we have had ten or a dozen men in here all wanting their wages. In some cases it is a disgrace. The men have left their work and want their money. Some of them have not got a cent to buy a meal with. Certainly someone is to blame."

Such was the opinion given this morning in the police court by Magistrate Cowan in the case of Jun Scullion versus the G.T.P.

Scullion, who was working for the agent at Edmonton on Saturday and asked for his wages. The agent there who has only power to give checks to those that come under the department of the road master refused to pay him. It seems that the time check should have been sent to Melville, where the headquarters are, the time

ATHLETICS ARE NOW THE CHAMPIONS OF THE WORLD

Coombs Won His Third Game of the Series, Sunday. Score Was 7 to 2

Chicago, Oct. 24.—The baseball championship of the world belongs to Philadelphia. They clinched the big pennant fast yesterday, 7 runs to 2 for Chicago, and there was none in the big overflow crowd to say that they had not won it fairly and squarely enough.

The day was bright and the weather of the Indian summer variety. Ground rules as usual were necessary. Philadelphia took the lead at the outset when Hartzell, who went to left field, while Lord played centre in place of Strunk, singled. The Philadelphia team present cheered, for that was the reason that "Topsy" was placed instead of Strunk. He stole second while Lord was striking out and brought in the first run when Collins hit to centre for one base. Then Strunk struck out Lord and Davis in this inning. Chicago came right back in the second, when Chance doubled to left, took third on a sacrifice, and scored when Steinfield delivered a hit into the bleachers. In the third and fourth stanzas the Philadelphians were not threatening, but Coombs did some stellar pitching to save himself from trouble in Chicago's half of the fourth. Two hits and a pass had filled the bases with one out, but the Philadelphian settled to his form, fanning the always "to be feared" Tinker and Archer. The Easterners assumed the lead in the fifth and were never headed thereafter. Steinfield's fumble gave Murphy a life at first. Barry's sacrifice and Lapp, who had done the catcher's mit in place of Thomas, sent him home with a single. The Chicago team went to pieces in the eighth. Brown held Coombs too lightly and the latter singled, but later was forced by Hartzell. Lord doubled and Hartzell scored, following which Collins rapped out a two-bagger and Lord crossed the plate. Collins, taking advantage of confusion in the Chicago camp, stole third, but was out at the plate when Baker hit weakly to Zimmerman. Davis was allowed to walk, placing runners on first and second.

Then Chicago blew up. Murphy singled to centre and Baker scored from second. Davis was at Baker's heels and Hoffman, who retrieved the hit, threw a block away from Archer and Davis scored. Murphy had reached second and stopped, but Empire O'Day invited him to take another base under the ground rules. Hoffman's wild heave having bumped the grand stand. Just to top the force, Brown delivered a wild pitch and Murphy came home. A moment later Brown gave Barry a base on balls, but Lapp ended the hilarity with an easy grounder.

In their half of this innings the Chicago took a desperate brace and added a run to their score, but that was all. Shekard heading the batting list, doubled and went to third on Schulte's out. Hoffman missed three good ones, but Captain Chance produced the needed hit and Shekard scored. Zimmerman ended the opportunity of this innings. Steinfield and Tinker hoisted to Lord, Archer made his first hit, but was forced at second for the last out of the series.

Chicago's last batter, Brown, sent an easy grounder to Barry. R. H. E. Philadelphia... 10001000—7 9 1 Chicago... 00000010—2 9 2 Batteries—Coombs and Lapp; Brown and Tinker.

WORLD'S SERIES STARS

Eddie Collins, second baseman, had faster and good base runner, was born at Milford, N. Y., May 2, 1887. He is 5 feet 10 inches and weighs 160 pounds. His first professional engagement was with the Athletics when Mack signed him. His previous experience was with Columbia College. He played at short a little while. Last year was his big season, he batted .346 and fielded .967.

Chief Bender.
Pitcher Charley Bender is a Chippewa. He is the best heater in the American league. He is a native of Brainerd, Minn., of the crop of 1883. Bender is 6 feet 2 and weighs but 175. In 1900 and 1910 he starred for Carlisle, and then took a year at Dickinson. The same year he pitched for the Athletics. In 1903 he joined the Athletics and his work two years later helped to win the flag. He won the only game the team took from the Giants in the world's series. He pitched great ball last year, and is at the top of his form now.

John W. Coombs.
Pitcher John W. Coombs hails from Portland, Maine. He is an inch longer than six feet, and carries 190 pounds. In 1902-3-4-5 he gained fame at Colby College, and Mack grabbed him in 1906, in which year he pitched the never-to-be-forgotten 24-inning game. His best year was in 1907, but the record he then made he promises to eclipse this season.

T.A.C. BEAT ST. MICHAELS

Toronto, Oct. 23.—T.A.C. won from St. Michaels in a fast senior O. R. P. U. game here Saturday afternoon and incidentally provided the most exciting exhibition to be seen in the league this season. St. Michaels held the lead for the greater part of the game. In the fourth quarter, however, Mat Gonters' ankle was broken and his brother, "Dutch," was so badly hurt that he had to quit. This disorganized the team and the T. A. C. went ahead and made the score eighteen to nine in favor of the T. A. C.

OTTAWA'S BEAT TIGERS

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The Hamilton Tiger were defeated here Saturday by the Ottawa seven to seven. The teams were evenly matched but the Ottawa took advantage of a couple of fumbles made by the Tigers' back division and won. At half time the score was nine to seven.

QUEENS SLAUGHTER OTTAWA

Kingston, Oct. 24.—Queens University rugby team whipped Ottawa College here Saturday afternoon to the tune of twenty-five to two. It was Queens' game at 10:15 way through and a cruel slaughter. The Ottawas only score consisted of two rouges forced in the second quarter. Ottawa lacked strength and simply could not break through the Queens' line.

VARSITY BEAT MCGILL

Toronto, Oct. 24.—McGill and Varsity met at the Varsity oval before a small crowd of spectators Saturday afternoon in the first intercollegiate soccer game here this season. McGill kicking against a strong south wind in the first half scored two goals to Varsity's one. In the second half there was some warm end to end play but no scoring until about ten minutes before end of game, when the Varsity men rushed in four goals in quick succession, making the final score five to two in Varsity's favor.

SURPRISES ARE MANY IN RUGBY

Argos Beat Montreal—Ottawa Whipped Tigers, Queens and Varsity, College Winner

Montreal, Oct. 24.—Varsity Saturday practically scooped the intercollegiate Rugby Championship when they beat McGill 8 to 1 on McGill field here. The game was played in a quagmire, in which the players slipped and wobbled around like kids in a street puddle. The uncertain footing made the game anything but a first class one from an artistic point of view, but it was a desperate battle all the way through. In the last quarter the sickly going told on the lighter Varsity team. They weakened gradually but died game, and though McGill had the Toronto lads on the defensive the best portion of the last quarter, a rout was the best they could get. Time and again with McGill on the 15 yard line, they stiffened up and either stole the ball in the scrimmage, threw the McGill line back for a distinct loss, or held them for downs.

ARGOS SPRING A SURPRISE.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—The inter-variety rugby game on Rosedale field Saturday afternoon was a close fought one and somewhat of a surprise in that the Argos won from Montreal by sixteen to fifteen. The game was somewhat of a see-saw from start to finish. The score at quarter time was seven to nothing for the visitors. The Argonauts did all the scoring in the second quarter and made the tally at half time ten to seven in their favor. The third quarter belonged to Montreal. They had the wind and played a kicking game making the score fourteen to ten. The Argos came back in the third quarter with a goal, and a few minutes later with another. Raising the score to sixteen. Montreal forced a rouge just before the end, making it sixteen to fifteen.

SHAM BATTLE.

Arrangements have been completed for the sham battle which will take place on Thanksgiving day in which all the local units will take place. In response to a request the newly formed Veterans' brigade may also figure. The scene of the fight will be in the northern part of the city extending from North Edmonton almost to the Stony Plain road between Alberta Avenue on the south and the G.T.P. on the north.

The scheme is to suppose that a battle had been fought the previous night near the Clover Bar bridge between the Red and Blue forces, the blues (the defending force), having been repulsed and forced to retreat in the direction of the G.T.P. roundhouse under cover of the night. The object of the Red force will therefore

TIGERS WON THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeat Calgary Y.M.C.A. on Saturday by 13 to 6—Doddie Was the Star

(Special to Capital)
Calgary, Oct. 24.—In the best game of the season the Tigers won the city championship by the score of thirteen to six in the best game of the series. (The teams played an open game full of kicking and running.)

Tigers made twelve points in the first ten minutes. First one by long kick to touch. Second on series of straight plunges through Y. M. line for try.

The second try was made on a pass kick from the goal line by Dunphy. Y. M. got all scores in second quarter, when one point was made on a long kick and one on a try by blocked kick.

Only one point was made in second half and that a rouge by Y. M. C. A. Tigers were much stronger on the line, but behind the line Doddie was the only man.

The day was perfect and play was clean.

It was a good exhibition of football between two fairly even teams.

The teams were:
Tigers—Full, Barton (155); halves, Pinkham (150), Doddie (155), Madden (145); quarter, Ross (160); wings, Beaz (185), Gibson (210); McLean (175), Priestley (170), Fitzgerald (158), White (162); scrummage, Wood (210), Johnston (190), Jim Johnson (185).

WrestlingCHICAGO WON FOURTH GAME IN 10th
AFTER PHILA LED FOR 9 INNINGS

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Heaten, outlacked, outlit, yet fighting fiercely, the Cubs made a last stand in the ninth inning yesterday, fell upon Bender with long hits, evaded the score and while the multitude went wild, pounded their way to victory in the tenth, winning a fiercely fought game 4 to 3.

They saved at least temporarily, the world's series championship and saved themselves from being the worst beaten team that ever played a world's championship. For eight innings it seemed like the old story over again. Everything the Athletics did was right and apropos, and they seemed able to hit into the crowd at any minute. Whatever the Cubs did went wrong and then worse. Their long hits were worth about 40 per cent. of those the Athletics made. It looked like rout and disaster heaped upon disaster. The Cubs were battling as they have not done in the series, fighting to save themselves the disgrace of a fourth straight beating and Cole was pitching hard, but not very well.

His witness let the Athletics even up after the Cubs had gone away from the lead.

Then Zimmerman miscalculated the speed of Collins, let the star of the crowd loom before him on an infield hit and two terrific cracks yielded two runs and seemed to end the series. Fighting fiercely and urged on by the cheers of the populace, the Cubs battled. Twice they seemed doomed, and they were into the ninth with the Athletics leading 3 to 2, and every one getting ready to have the tickets for Sunday's game redeemed. A screaming double by Schulte turned the whole tide and in an instant Chicago's long triple over the head and nearly to the clubhouse, set the crowd exploding and spluttering. Twenty thousand raving maniacs cheered them on. In the ninth Manager Chance relieved Cole and sent in the veteran Brown. Zimmerman failed and they went into an extra inning with a wild mob urging the Cubs on. A double by Davis stilled the tumult for a few minutes, but Tinker, by a magnificent stop and the throw to first destroyed the hopes of the Athletics.

Then with the spirit of Chicago urging them along, the Cubs rushed to average the Chicago massacre. Archer lunched a hit to far left field, that ordinarily would have been a home run, but ground rules stopped him at second. Brown's out pushed him to third and in the pinch Schulte smashed over second the hit that set Chicago crazy and revived the dying hopes of the Cubs. Then pandemonium broke loose and for a half hour the west side park was like a mad house in an attack of hysteria.

First Innings
Philadelphia—Strunk out, Steinfield to Chance. Sheppard got Lord's drive and Collins was out. Chance to Cole, no cover first. No runs.
Chicago—Schneider walked; Shulte struck out, but Sheppard stole second. Sheppard scored on Hoffman's bounder over third, Chance forced Hoffman at second and was declared out at first. Hoffman incoherently interceded with the throw. The play on Hoffman was Baker to Collins. One run.

Second Innings
Philadelphia—Baker singled; Davis struck out. Schulte took Murphy's fly. Baker out, Archer to Tinker, stealing. No runs.
Chicago—Zimmerman hit a high fly to Murphy. Steinfield grounded out to Baker to Davis. Tinker waited for four balls and Tinker out stealing. Thomas to Collins. No runs.

Third Innings
Philadelphia—Baker sent a half dozen fouls to various parts of the ground, and then went out to Steinfield to Chance. Thomas was easy. Cole to Chance. Bender was passed and scored on Strunk's triple. Strunk overold third was out. Sheppard to Steinfield. One run.
Chicago—Archer fanned, Cole struck out, but Thomas dropped the ball but got the runner to first. Sheppard and the out. No runs.

Fourth Innings
Philadelphia—Lord struck out. Collins beat out a hit to Zimmerman. Davis struck out. Baker doubled, sending Collins to third. Collins crossed the plate, but was sent back under the ground rule. Baker and Collins scored on Murphy's double into the left field corner. Barry struck out the third man to do so. Two runs.

Chicago—Schulte singled to left and went to third on Hoffman's hit which was too hot for Davis. Schulte scored on Chance single, Hoffman going to second. Hoffman and Zimmerman were doubled, Bender to Baker to Davis. Steinfield hit a fly to Strunk. One run.

Fifth Innings
Philadelphia—Thomas grounded, Zimmerman to Chance; Bender singled to left. Strunk bunted safely along first base line. Lord fled out to Sheppard. Collins went out to Sheppard. No runs.
Chicago—Tinker struck out. Archer was out on a grounder, Baker to Davis. Cole struck out. No runs.

Sixth Innings
Philadelphia walked to first on balls. Davis sacrificed, Baker to second and was out. Cole to Chance. Murphy singled, too hot for Steinfield, placing Baker on third. Baker was caught at the plate, Steinfield to Archer. Barry was safe on a fielder's choice. Thomas' high bouncer over Cole's head was merely checked by Cole's stalk, and was a hit, filling the bases. Bender fled to Schulte. No runs.
Chicago—Barry took Sheppard's bounder. Hoffman popped out to Baker. Shulte was out stealing. Thomas to Baker. No runs.

Seventh Innings
Philadelphia—Strunk fanned. Archer dropped the ball, but threw him out at first. Hoffman got Collins's fly. No runs.
Chicago—Chance out, Bender to Davis. Zimmerman singled. Davis dropped Steinfield's spinning foul. Steinfield struck out. Zimmerman out, stealing. Thomas to Collins. No runs.

Eighth Innings
Philadelphia—Baker beat out a grounder to Chance as Cole was slow covering first. Davis walked, Murphy sacrificed to Zimmerman, placing Baker on third by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Baker was forced at the plate and Thomas doubled at first. Cole to Archer to Chance. No runs.
Chicago—Collins got Tinker's fly. Archer out, Collins to Davis. Kling went in to bat for Cole. Baker threw low and Kling's grounder and Kling made second on the error. Sheppard fled out to Lord. No runs.

Ninth Innings
Philadelphia—Bender out, Steinfield to Chance. Strunk sent a pop fly, but Archer ran into Brown, knocking it out of his hands. Lord forced Strunk to second, Tinker to Zimmerman. Collins was thrown out. Brown to Chance. No runs.
Chicago—The crowd stood up when Schulte came up. Schulte doubled to right. Hoffman lunched the first ball in the evening to him. He bunted the next one, but was touched on the line by Davis. Schulte taking third time by the first ball pitched hit Chance on the finger, but the umpire ruled that he had stepped into it. Schulte scored when Chance tripped to deep centre. The noise in the stands was ear-splitting. Zimmerman popped a fly to Barry. Baker reached over the stand and captured Steinfield's fly. One run.

In the ninth Manager Chance relieved Cole and sent in veteran Brown. Zimmerman failed and they went into an extra inning with a wild mob urging the Cubs on. A double by Davis stilled the tumult for a few minutes, but Tinker by a magnificent stop and the throw to first destroyed the hopes of the Athletics.

The Tenth
Then with the spirit of Chicago urging them along, the Cubs rushed to average the Chicago massacre. Archer lunched a hit to far left field, that ordinarily would have been a home run, but the ground rules stopped him at second. Brown out, pushed him to third and in the pinch Sheppard smashed over second the hit that set Chicago crazy and revived the dying hopes of the Cubs. Then pandemonium broke loose and for half an hour the West Side park was like a mad house in an attack of hysteria.

The batting order was as follows: Philadelphia—Strunk, cf; Lord, 1b;

Collins, 2b; Baker, 3b; Davis, 1b; Murphy, 1b; Barry, ss; Thomas, c; Bender, p.

"KING" COLE'S CAREER.

"King" Leonard Cole, the star pitcher with the Chicago Cubs, was born on April 15, 1886, in Toledo, O., but makes his home at present in Bay City, Mich., where he first became famous as a pitcher. His first professional engagement was with the Bay City team of the Southern Michigan league in 1909, and he immediately attracted the attention of the scouts. The Chicago club obtained him by a combined process of purchase and draft after the national commission had straightened out a tangle. Going to the Cubs with only one year's experience, Cole made good from the start, and became one of the season's sensations as well as the team's leading pitcher in point of games won and lost. He is 6 feet 13 inches tall and weighs 172 pounds. He pitches and bats right-handed, and was married this year.

FRANK CHANCE
WAS HISSSED

Chicago Fan Called Him a Peerless Lemon—Manager Used His Feet

Chicago, Oct. 24.—A fist fight between Manager Frank Chance and a disgruntled fan in which half a dozen Chicago players and as many spectators joined, nearly resulted in a riot on Wednesday afternoon at the Pennsylvania depot, when the Chicago baseball team arrived here from Philadelphia. Thousands of cheering fans gathered to greet their defeated champions, turned their acclaim into catcalls and hisses for Chance and his men and to shouts of encouragement for the fighting fan. When the fight was at its height the police charged with drawn clubs and the players were saved from rough handling.

It was a disheartened though loyal following that awaited the arrival of the Cubs' last and the Cub team was cheered lustily enough when the members swung from the train. Chance and the others stopped briefly to a line of waiting automobiles. A fan followed them, singling out Chance and began abusing him for the showing of his team in Philadelphia. Chance stepped into his machine, then suddenly turned and kicked his tormentor full in the face. He jumped out of the automobile and the two men went to the ground in a spirited fight. The two sprang up and a hard right swing sent the fan reeling. Chance followed him up, raining lefts and rights on his face, beating him unmercifully. A score of spectators started to interfere and several Chicago players rushed to Chance's assistance.

The fighting was general when the police arrived. The players were hustled into their automobiles, the drivers ordered to drive on, and the crowd was then dispersed.

Before the fight Chance was nearly mobbed by the more enthusiastic of the fans, who tried to hoist him on their shoulders, but while the fight was in progress most of those who witnessed it appeared to sympathize with the fan.

The Philadelphia Athletics in their special train arrived at 3:30 this afternoon and were met by a crowd of 5,000 persons.

Chance's opponent was knocked unconscious and spectators said that Chance kicked him in the face with both feet before he went down. On being revived it was learned he was only a youth, not more than half Chance's size.

"You're not a 'peerless leader,' you're a 'peerless lemon,'" was the jering remark of the lad that had aroused the ire of the Cub captain. The youth declared that he had not called Chance a vile name. Spectators bore out his statements and he was not arrested.

"As the team was whirling away, individual members came in for cheers with the exception of Chance, who was hissed.

THE RUGBY TEAM
LOOKS VERY GOOD

Had a Useful Practise on Saturday—Have a Hard Week Ahead of Them

The Eskimos had a splendid practise Saturday afternoon and are again in steady training for their match in Calgary on Thanksgiving Day.

Their week's lay-off does not seem to have harmed the players very much and they went at their work on Saturday as if they really enjoyed it.

Coach Belangue was tickled to death with the fine showing and predicts a surprise in Calgary on Monday.

The back division for the next game will probably consist of McCarthy, full-back, Grant, Wilson and O'Donoghue. These men are working nicely together and have their trick plays down pat. It is an open question who will fill the other positions on the team. There are a number of candidates for the rush line and the selection committee will give the preference to the regular attendants at practise.

The team will turn out every evening this week and everybody is requested to be on the jump. It's the team that gets away well that wins rugby matches, so Coach Belangue will shake the old pepper pot over them before they take the field at Metavata Park.

Deacon White was chasing around like a two year old on Saturday afternoon. Besides ruining a perfectly good suit of clothes, Deak showed that in his college days he must have been some "pumpkin," as a rugby player, ell has the American flying tackle down to a nicety and this effective means of collaring an opponent could be well adopted by some of the Eskimos.

Great interest is being manifested around town in the Football Excursion and from present indications there will be nearly 300 on the special train leaving early Sunday morning.

Rugby matches, bowling games, and Tommy Burns' entertainment will afford a good amusement for the excursionists. The tickets, costing $3.95 for the return trip will be put on sale today.

THE RUGBY EXCURSION

Tickets are on sale at the Cecil Hotel office for the excursion of the Edmonton Rugby Football club to Calgary on Thanksgiving Day. The exceptionally low rate of $3.95 return has been secured. Reservations of berths can be made at the C.P.R. ticket office.

THE CRIPSEN CASE

If wireless telegraphy had not entered into the pursuit of Dr. Crippen and Miss Levee, it is unlikely that the crime, of which the former has now been convicted, would have attracted any particular attention. It was a very gruesome and sordid one, but dozens like it are committed every year. San Francisco has been stirred up over one which bears a very close analogy to it, but only local interest has been attracted. There could be only one verdict. Though Crippen kept his nerve in wonderful fashion, his story couldn't hold water for a minute in face of the circumstances surrounding his wife's disappearance and his own flight. Under the criminal law of some states, that of New York or Germany, as instances, it is said that he could not have been convicted in absence of a solid proof that the body found in the cellar was that of his wife. This is what is known as the theory of the corpus delicti. Like most theories, if applied without any reference to common sense, it may be decidedly harmful. Certainly it would have defeated justice in the case of Dr. Crippen.

The proceedings, of which the newspapers have had so much to tell, serve to illustrate once more the sound practice that governs the administration of justice in the old land. Resourceful and well subsidized counsel haven't the chance of cheating the law that they have in some other parts of the English-speaking world. The judicial machinery does its work thoroughly and at the same time with sufficient speed to save us that display of sickly sentimentality which always ensues when a case is long drawn out. After a man has had a death sentence hanging over him for a year or so, no matter how heinous the offence with which he is charged, he becomes something akin to a hero in the eyes of a certain portion of the public. Where his trial is brought on promptly and a final verdict soon follows, there is little opportunity for this. One of the few British cases which in this respect, is analogous to scores that have arisen in the United States, was that of Mrs. Maybrick. It isn't often that there is so much hesitancy in dealing with a person accused of serious crime as in that instance, and the circumstances were certainly exceptional.

A great deal of strong language is being used in certain quarters over the obstacle said to have been placed in the way of the city's project to develop power on the Athabasca river. There isn't much need to worry. If the departmental regulations really allow the city to be held up in this way, these regulations would simply have to be overruled. Public opinion wouldn't for a moment allow them to stand in the way of an undertaking that intimately concerns a large section of the people of the province. It is well the question has arisen at this stage. It promises to lead to effective measures being taken to safeguard the water-powers of this part of the west from unfair encroachments by private parties and to ensure that the public will get the full benefit of them.

Toronto Saturday Night, the Winnipeg Tribune, and several other newspapers, refer with surprising warmth to the reports that Hon. Frank Oliver is to retire from the Dominion Cabinet. The Tribune uses them as a text for a diatribe extending over a column or so against Hon. Clifford Sifton and all his works and connections. The ex-minister of the Interior, it declares, is conspiring against the present occupant of the post. Saturday Night also sees conspiracy. It doesn't mention names but hints at the possibility of a man who in its opinion is a paragon of virtue. The Bulletin sees fit to reproduce the comment of the Toronto paper. Wouldn't it be time enough for Mr. Oliver's friends to hit out at his party associates when he himself is attacked? If he wishes to stay in the Cabinet and Sir Wilfrid continues to desire his services, how can these reports, which have arisen in eastern publications, which cannot be considered unfriendly to him, have any effect? Similar reports are circulated from time to time regarding other public men. What if every time it was said, Sir Wilfrid was going to retire, his most ardent journalistic supporters accused Mr. Fielding of plotting to take the premiership away from him? Scarcely a month has gone by for ten years back that some newspaper has not disposed of Sir Richard Cartwright. Yet his admirers haven't seized the occasion to attack those who might have a chance to take his place. If Mr. Oliver's own paper had not taken a hand in the discussion, it would simply have said that he was being placed in a false light by over-zealous friends. But the Bulletin's action makes a considerable difference.

What Others Say

FOREST RESERVES

Likely to be Considerably Enlarged Soon.

In the report of the superintendent of forestry, which forms part of the annual report of the department of the interior, recently published, are given many interesting details as to the administration and working of the forest reserves.

The most striking developments in regard to the forest reserves is, of course, the setting aside of the Rocky Mountain forest reserve, a tract of country aggregating some 14,000 square miles, some of which is already reserved as national parks (i.e., the Rocky Mountains Park, the Kootenai National Park, and Jasper Forest Park). The great importance of this reserve is due to the opportunity it affords for the preservation and conservation of the waters of the rivers which rise in the Rockies and traverse the prairie country and whose waters play so important a role in the fertility of the soil of this, one of the richest farming countries in the world. The forest on the tract consists mainly of lodgepole (spruce), spruce, Engelmann spruce and Douglas fir. Very serious fires have occurred throughout the reserve in times past but the natural reproduction, over the greater part of the reserve at any rate, is abundant.

Further extensions of the reserve are contemplated, in fact, some of the lands have already been reserved from settlement, though not formally set aside as reserves. Among the proposed extensions are:

To the Sprucewoods reserve, 70,000 acres.

To the Duck Mountain reserve 15,000 acres.

To the Cypress Hills reserve, 80,000 acres.

To the Beaver Hills reserve, 200,000 acres.

Similar action has been taken in regard to a tract of 4,000 acres near Spirit Lake, Sask. The foregoing extent, 201,000 acres, or over 100,000 square miles.

A tract of land which includes Mount Ida and the Fly Hills (near Salmon Arm, B. C.) was also inspected in the fall of 1909, with a view to its being set aside as a forest reserve.

Much other interesting information in regard to the reserves and the other work of the Forestry branch is given in the annual report of the superintendent of forestry above mentioned. Copies may be obtained on application to R. H. Campbell, superintendent of forestry, Ottawa.

doubt that it was all right, will be had to verify it.

Mr. Cowan then directed that the agent either wire or telephone the foreman and also wire to the head office, and adjourned the case until Friday at 10.30 a.m. If the case is settled before that time neither parties need appear in court.

"Perhaps it is a question that I ought not to ask but I have never inquired before why it is that the company have their offices at McElvillie, why do they not have them in Edmonton?" asked the magistrate.

The agent explained that the company was doing no business west of Edmonton at present except construction and that as soon as the line west opened up the company would open offices in Edmonton.

BIG HOTEL FIRE SAFE IS INTACT

The Albion Hotel at Carleton Place, was totally destroyed by fire on the 20th of October. In the foregoing testimony the proprietor tells of the condition in which he found his No. 301 Hall's safe—surely a real proof of the actual work of this make of safe. It lay in the wreck of a three storey building from 2.30 Sunday morning to 5 o'clock Sunday evening.

October 10, 1910.
Percy H. Johnson, Esq.,
Agent for The Hall's Safe Co.,
Calgary, Alta.

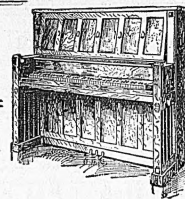

Dear Sir—To say that I was more than surprised at opening my No. 301 Hall's safe today to find the contents in first class condition, is putting it mild. The said safe having passed through an intense heat in the burning of the Albion Hotel at Carleton Place on the morning of Oct. 20th, everything in connection with the hotel being destroyed beyond recognition and on account of the intense heat of the fire and the heat of the safe after the fire had subsided, or burnt out, I did not expect to find the contents of said safe of any service to me, excepting to find them charred beyond all use.

On account of the good condition of the said contents, the said safe has compensated me for ten times its original cost. A drawer containing rubber bands I was surprised to find said bands in good condition. The fire in the money drawer showed scarcely any evidence of passing through the conflagration.

It was the general opinion of the citizens of our town who have Hall's and other safes in use that on account of the great heat and small size of my safe, that the contents would be destroyed beyond usefulness.

Yours very truly,
T. E. DRISCOLL,

RUTHENIAN CEREMONY.

west on Saturday brought guests from a distance of a hundred miles around that this index ended into the night and in an hour it seemed as though the town had forgotten the coming gathering on the morrow. It was only when morning dawned that the real importance of the occasion began to manifest itself. When the sun was just peering over the prairie's edge

the trails north, east, south and west began to rattle with the approach of wagons, singly, in twos and threes.

Now seen in the distance, now vanishing into a hollow or hidden by a clump of scrub. But all converged to one point, the little church that stood at the crossroads just to the north of town. Here, as they arrived, they huddled or tied their horses.

Friends conversed, women chatted, children romped. The crowd grew by magic. The prairie seemed to shake them forth from every fold in her robe. By ten o'clock the encampment had spread four hundred yards around and a small army seemed to have taken up its quarters. The drum, though not by one tongue, expressed strange diversities. The new arrivals in sheepskin coats and busby cap, the older men, some crowned with a hundred winters, the women, who had taken to new ways

but were unmistakably Galician, the young bloods from town with patent leather boots and Stetson hats, and the girls, Canadian even to their shirtswaives and puffs, but Ruthenian as could be when one looked at the face—all combined to produce a striking picture.

The atmosphere and surroundings were western, the prairie rising and falling and rising again, till it vanished into the sky, the town so near at a half mile's distance that one could almost touch it—with gray elvators and schoolhouses and over all the inimitable, blue-Albertan sky. Yet here, was dropped this bit of the old world, a Byzantine church with dome

and minarets, its gleaming crucifix and stained windows surrounded by a vast crowd clothed in the quaint garb of Ruthenia.

Presently the guests of the day arrived. Accompanied by priests from the monastery, and escorted by a group of riders, the carriage of the cardinal swept down the trail and pulled up at the church. The contrast between the East and West was here most striking. The riders on their ponies, stock saddle and all bearing down two and two, before the carriage gave a truly western touch, while a sober, old world flavor came from the flowing robes and majestic bearing of the priests as they alighted and moved

under the arch with its yellow streamers towards the church door.

Again and again the archbishop turned to answer the acknowledgements

of the crowd, as they knelt and kissed his robes. Reaching the steps he turned and sprinkled the waiting crowd. As he stood on the threshold listening to the welcome of the priest

he was a magnificent figure. Fully six-foot six, with the head and the bearing of a prince, his every movement was full of dignity and grace.

He bowed as he entered the church and passed up towards the chancel.

As he reached the steps leading to the altar the priests about him and the crowd behind him broke into a wild Ruthenian chant that swelled in volume as fresh numbers gathered and the crowd outside took up the refrain.

Latter day materialism melted away

and they were once more a simple folk, worshipping under their spirituality, Levity and smartness were gone and old and young, foreign and Canadian-born, alike, joined in the song that rose and fell and thrilled

through the little wooden building.

The service was most impressive and symbolic. The procession of priests passed around the altar with genflections and acts of worship.

Then came the anointing of the altar and the blessing of the church. The archbishop, with his attendants passing twice around the church, sprinkling its walls, as the Hebrews of old, did sprinkled the door posts, and marking them with their symbolic figures.

Then the refection formed and passed out in silence for the last stage in the ceremony. Three times around the church they swept, chanting in the old Ruthenian songs, a sight

most striking by reason of its very volume. The crowds seemed here to catch the spirit of the service. Never to be forgotten was the sight of the priest, a giant in size, like Saul of old, with his cardinal's crimson cassock and staff, his robes glistening and glowing in the glorious morning sunshine, marching with stately step before a procession of white-haired elders, and worshipping priests, gaily dressed women and hard-handed men over whom shone the bust and the sparkling banners. Truly a mixed multitude, but all for a few moments

lost in their act of worship and hove

in memory back to that distant land that gave them a bare existence, but inwrought for them with all the glamour of memory and tradition. Then they passed into the church once more and again the church took them in by hundreds till the very doors were ground with the press. The altar was spread, the candles lit, and the priest, rising in all his majesty stood before the kneeling multitude, and the service of mass began.

For all that the walls of the church were bare, the whole unadorned, and the scaffold still up, the dignity of the worship was unquestioned. Not a seat was there or rail but for one long hour and a half that multitude hung on the speaker's words, watched his every movement, caught up at the refrain from time to time with the Amen or Hallelujah and when a familiar hymn was struck, burst out with a spontaneity, a freshness and an accuracy seldom found in our Western churches. The parking of the sacramental marked the close of the service, but the crowd still lingered on the promise of hearing words of greeting from the cardinal himself.

His words were simple and direct.

He expressed to his people his joy

at seeing them in their western home and hoped that they would strive in their new world to live a true Christian life. Let them not forget the religion of their fathers, nor heed those irresponsible priests who make a living by misleading them. These seemed to be numerous in this new land where men were more unrestrained and sharper were more numerous.

Let them keep their lamps trimmed and burning like the wise virgins of old.

His words, delivered in kindly fashion were listened to most attentively. He addressed them in the Ruthenian, his native language, in a rapid manner, accompanied with most vivid gestures and in a deep, impressive, yet sympathetic voice. His figure seemed to lose none of its majesty, although seated, while his demeanor and manner took on an extraneous and animation that made his speech a model of rhetorical delivery.

At the close he blessed the little children about him and to some of them he presented appropriate so-venirs.

With this, the service, after lasting some three hours and a half, was brought to a close. The church was emptied and for half an hour the prairie was alive with star and color.

Wherever one looked were crowds of horses, wagons, pedestrians, riders,

all crossing and re-crossing weaving and swaying up and down till gradually the trails claimed their own and the place was still. The memorable day was over.

THE CONQUEST of CANAAN

By BOOTH TARKINGTON.

Author of "Cherry," "Monsieur Beaucaire," etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"Will, here I am," he said, "across Main street bridge, and it must be getting on toward noon." He spoke almost with the aspect of dawning and immediately stood still listening. "Remember," he ventured to repeat, again, "remember! Across Main street bridge at noon!" And again he listened. Then he chuckled faintly with relief, for he expected not to return. "Thank God, I've got rid of that!" he whispered. "And of the circus land too!"

A dusty road turned to the right, following the river and shaded by big sycamores on the bank. The mongrel, intensely preoccupied with this road, scampered away, his nose to the ground. "Good enough," said the master. "Lead on and I'll come after you."

But he had not far to follow. The chase led him to a half hollow log which lay on a low grassy level above the stream where the dog's interest in the pursuit became vivid; temporarily, however, for after a few minutes of agitated investigation he was seized with indifference to the whole world, panted briefly, slept. Joe sat upon the log, which was in the shade, and smoked.

For the first time it struck Joe that it was a beautiful day, and it came to him that a beautiful day was a thing which nothing except death, sickness or imprisonment could take from him, not even the ban of Canaan. Unforewarned music sounded in his ears again, but he did not shrink from it now. This was not the circus band he had heard as he left the square, but a melody like a faraway serenade, as if of "the lullaby of old land faintly blowing," and he closed his eyes with the sweetness of it.

"Go ahead," he whispered. "Do that all you want to. If you'll keep it up like this awhile, I'll follow with 'Little Brown Jug, How I Love Thee'!" It seems to pay after all! The music strains, however, were but the prelude to a harsher sound which interrupted and annihilated them—the courteous bell clanging out. "All right!" said Joe. "It's over and I'm across Main street bridge."

He opened his eyes and looked about him. He had just emerged from the bridge and was coming toward him. It would be hard to get to Joe's first impression of her. We can find conveyance for only the broadest and heaviest. Ancient and modern instances multiply the ease of the sleeper who dreams out a long story in accretion color and fine detail, a tale of years, in the opening and shutting of a door. So with Joseph in the brief space of the lady's approach. And with him, as with the sleeper, it must have been in fact it was—in his recollections later a blur of emotion.

He had little knowledge of the military arts, and he needed none to see the harmony—harmony like that of the day he had discovered a little while ago. Her dress and hat and gloves and parasol showed a pale lavender over-tint like that which he had seen over-spreading the western slope. (Afterward he discovered that the gloves she wore that day were gray and that her hat was for the most part white.) The charm of fabric and that belonging to what she wore was no stranger to her, not being of primal importance beyond herself. It was but the expression of her daintiness and the adjunct of it. She was tall, but if Joe could have spoken or thought of her as "slender" he would have been capable of calling her lips "red," in which case he would not have been Joe and would have been as far from the truth as her lips were from red or as her supreme delicateness was from mere slenderness.

She was to pass him—he thought—and as she drew nearer his breath came faster. "Remember! Across Main street bridge at noon!"

Was this the way of whom the voice had warned him? With that, there he felt him the mystery of the night. He did not remember, but it was as if he lived again dimly the highest hour of happiness in a life a thousand years ago; perfume and music, roses, nightingales and plucked harpstrings. Yes, something wonderful was happening to him.

She had stopped directly in front of him—stopped and stood looking at him with her clear eyes. He did not lift his eyes to hers. He had long experience of the averted gaze of women, but it was not only that. A great shyness beset him. He had tried and overrode his hat, trying (ineffectually) not to clear his throat, his every day sense urging upon him that she was a stranger in Canaan who had lost her way; the preposterousness of any one's losing the way in Canaan not just now appearing to his every day sense.

"Can I—can I?" he stammered, blushing miserably, meaning to finish with "direct you," or "show you the way?"

Then he looked at her again and saw

NEW CIVIC LEAGUE IS NOW ORGANIZED

To the surprise of some, the public meeting held at the Separate school hall Friday night for the purpose of organizing a citizens' organization in place of the dissolved Municipal Improvement league, passed off very quietly and in a businesslike way, launching into existence a new institution which promises in every way to possess far more influence, have better effect, and to stimulate more interest in the solution of municipal problems among the ratepayers of the city, than the one which passed into civic history at the memorable meeting at Houston's hall on September 1st.

Mr. A. E. Potter was elected to the presidency of the new association by acclamation, while the election of Mr. Joseph T. Clarke to the position of secretary-treasurer was one of the notable incidents of the evening.

Mr. Potter, who also acted as convenor, in calling the meeting to order, explained the objects of the organization as outlined in the constitution later presented for adoption. To raise the standard and efficiency of the personnel of municipal officers both appointed and elected, and where it is considered advisable for this purpose to nominate, support and conduct the campaign of candidates for such municipal offices, and to insist upon an equal distribution of the municipal expenditure according to population and payment of taxes, to hold public meetings for the discussion and action upon any public question that a majority of the league or its executive may deem important enough to justify such action; to take steps toward the obtaining of good government, and to investigate grievances, abuse and to suggest remedies for the same.

The meeting was largely attended, and among those present were Ald. McInnes and Major Griesbach, both of whom spoke at the close of the routine business.

The election of a secretary was the first business transacted, and in answer to the call for nominations, Mr. Rice offered the name of Mr. Clarke for the position.

"From the experience of other municipal leagues which have failed," he said, "it is necessary to have an able man to fill the position, and I have much pleasure in nominating Mr. Joseph A. Clarke."

There were no other nominations and on the announcement of Mr. Clarke's election, there was considerable applause.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Potter made reference to the announcement in one of the local newspapers that the street railway would have a deficit this year and went on to criticize the administration on the construction of extensions into unpopulated districts of the city. Such extensions were unjustifiable and were one of the principal causes of the deficit.

"Just the other day," he said, "it was stated that the loss on First street and Vermilion avenue route was $18 per day, but what will it be on the extensions to unpopulated districts?"

The draft constitution, prepared by the sub-committee of the committee appointed on September 21, was presented and adopted, with only one amendment, that to the clause providing for fees. The original draft provided for a charge of two dollars a year for membership, but after discussion it was reduced to one dollar, and was opposed to the levying of any charge.

The constitution, among other things, provided for a name: "The Municipal Improvement League of Edmonton," and permits of membership any ratepayer who is desirous of associating himself.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President—A. E. Potter. First vice president—J. J. Denman. Second vice president—E. L. Wright.

Secretary-treasurer—Joseph A. Clarke.

Executives—W. A. Griesbach, John Macdonald, N. A. McIver, A. Beaton and A. Livingstone. The executive were instructed to bring in a report embodying a ticket to be offered for election by the league at the forthcoming municipal elections, consisting of a majority of the aldermanic seats, the same to have the support of the league, and to arrange a platform. The suggestion that the personnel of the ticket composed representative men of different interests, and from different quarters of the city, will be adhered to in the choice.

For the purpose of deciding on the ticket and platform a meeting of the executive was called for next Tuesday evening in Major Griesbach's office.

Major Griesbach in response to an invitation to speak, stated that he considered that the highest form of public service was in serving the municipality, in which all citizens had such a direct interest, in that the method of the administration of the municipal government effected their pockets to such an extent. Major Griesbach said that he intended to take a deeper interest in municipal politics in future, but was not decided whether he would again offer himself for election to public office.

Ald. McInnes in reference to the statement of another alderman that the members of the council were not in close enough touch with the city hall affairs, said it was the case it was their own fault. To become familiar with the transactions of the city's business it was necessary for the aldermen to put in an appearance at the city hall a little more than council nights and look through and examine the correspondence, files, contracts, etc. He declared himself in sympathy with the league and stated that every ratepayer who had the interests of the city at heart should become associated with it.

Mr. Potter in reference to Major Griesbach, complimented him and apologized by saying that he deserved more credit for his record during his term of office, when he was considerably hampered by the financial conditions, than any other man who occupied the mayor's chair in this city.

Mr. Clarke suggested that Ald. McInnes become a member of the league and run as the league's representative.

STOCK ORGANIZATIONS HELD MEETING TODAY

The stock organizations of other cities including the Provincial Horse, Cattle, Sheep and Swine Breeders' Associations held their meetings this afternoon at 2 p.m. in the rooms of the Board of Trade. These are entirely new societies but it is proposed to hold a fat stock exhibit and sale under their auspices next spring.
The date has not yet been set but February or March will be the time.
All the details will be left entirely with the directorate which is elected this afternoon and the permanent secretary, Mr. Harrison.

WILL MAKE REPORT.

It is hardly likely that it will be necessary to have an engineer appointed as assistant to the city engineer, to make a report and prepare plans for the proposed east end bridge as the department is catching up with work which will permit Mr. Latornel undertaking the investigation himself.
Mr. Latornel believes that he could have the report and preliminary plans for a bridge ready in two or three weeks. It will necessarily involve reports on at least two sites, both of which are located between River and Marjorie streets.

and manufacturing. Try Ash Bros.
